

Comparison between expected and observed distributions of number of occurrences

